07/11/2018 2:37 PM	CONNOR,JODIE	Comment - Written	We oppose plans by Vulcan Materials to set up a 1500-acre open-pit rock quarry in a residential area of central Comal County, between Bulverde, Spring Branch, Garden Ridge, and New Braunfels. We understand the following regarding the proposed Vulcan project: • Vulcan has a poor track record of compliance with TCEQ regulations and permit restrictions • There are no air quality monitors located in Comal County, and therefore TCEQ does not have the ability to monitor Vulcan's air emissions or enforce compliance We urge the TCEQ commissioners to deny Vulcan's air quality permit application number 147392L001. Please note we are on a new strett in a new subdivision less than 5 miles from proposed rock crushing plant. Air quality, among other negative results of this quarry, would impact many of us, including our family (firefighter who already has compromised lung health from service to community). We recently moved here to retire.

			Request a hearing to contested the State's ability to provide an air permit for a plant that will negatively affect more than just the air. Water, property rights, ground contamination, and health and welfare concerns are the equally important as air. The other concern is related to the zoning considerations for use of predominantly ranch, agriculture and residential areas. How were the local commissioners involved in the process to allow such activity?If they were not then what government entity spoke on
